For any section which is left empty it is assumed there is nothing to submit.

Where no other certifier name has been included, it is assumed that the overall proposer is that certifier.

I certify to the best of my knowledge and belief that all the information supplied in this proposal form is true and accurate.

Proposal Submission Date:

In the case where multiple people have supplied the information, the proposer should enter their names and membership numbers in each applicable section, in the case where this is not done, it is deemed that the overall proposer has taken the responsibility for the data accuracy.

The proposer signature signifies that they either support the information given or have accurately entered the information from others into the document with their name and membership number.

All forms to be submitted to the NRC secretary in the first instance via email as identified on the British Judo website refereeing pages.

The NRC will respond in writing (e-mail) to verify the next action / decision made (maybe to request more details). In the case where a candidate is unsuccessful, the proposer may choose to submit more information or in exceptional circumstances log an appeal directly with the NRC secretary.

In the unlikely event that the proposer is not satisfied with the final outcome after appeal, there is no further course of action via the NRC available.
