Thinking About Becoming a CWO

Our clubs rely on the valuable support of a range of volunteers, this includes the important role of the Club Welfare Officer (CWO).

The CWO will provide proactive support and administration to deliver the Safeguarding Operating Standard required by the BJA within their club and work closely with the BJA Safeguarding Team in delivering and monitoring safeguarding procedures.

USEFUL RESOURCES NSPCC

NSPCC Online Safety

Being online is a huge part of children's lives. Social media, online gaming, instant messaging platforms and image-sharing services enable children to connect with friends, explore interests, and discover new communities.

However, these online platforms and services also come with risks. It's important that professionals help children and young people to understand the risks and stay safe

This series of expert insight films helps those working and volunteering with children and young people to explore what online safety means, recognise the risks children face and understand how to support children's safety online.
